Sidelight On The Storm

The Hospital for Crippled Adults in Memphis immediately wired Homer Williams offering assistance. This hospital is maintained by voluntary contributions from the Rotary Clubs, of which Homer is local president.

Brother Kirk, of Duck Hill who saw the tornado cross 51 Highway immediately ahead of him said he saw a bull completely skinned by the wind.

The wind dismembered Lamar Chamberlain's car. The motor was lifted out and blown many yards away. A mechanic could not have used wrenches to take it from the frame more cleanly than the wind sheared off the steel bolts.

Dr. Raiford, the colored doctor, stayed up all night and filled a large room adjoining his office with injured negroes, many of whom were from the Sweet Home community.

Will Bell, who lives just South of the path of the storm stated that the storm which hit the southern part of Grenada was a result of the conjunction of two tornadoes which occurred near 51 Highway.

Great damage was done in the town of Scobey, according to Mr. Clyde Best.

The disaster to Grenada was grossly exaggerated by the press and radio, especially the latter.

Following the spreading of the exaggerated news, the telegraph office and the telephone company did a land office business from people off calling and telegraphing about their folks here in Grenada.

The storm actually hit in the extreme southeastern part of the city, leaving the rest of the town absolutely intact.

The greatest victim, in point of human values, was the Talbert Yeager family; one son killed, home and premises entirely razed, all children injured more or less seriously, and grandparents both injured.

L. C. Howard suffered great property loss and, until officers were stationed to guard his property, was the victim of looters, the vultures who feed upon disaster.

Mrs. Talbert Yeager was perhaps the greatest victim of shock and surprise for, her first knowledge of the disaster that befell her home and family was when, upon her return from the meeting of her church auxiliary, she beheld the havoc wrought by the tornado.

In point of financial loss, the Allen Cooperage Company was the greatest victim as its plant was left in shambles. Fortunately, the power had been off for forty minutes prior to 5 o'clock when the storm sttruck.

The Jackson family, reported living at Holcomb, actually lived on the Hightower old place on the Carroll county side of the Carroll-Grenada line Four members of his family are dead.

One Northern physician, name unknown, heard of the trouble when he reached Batesville and turned around, returned to Grenada to offer his aid.

The funeral of little Billy Yeager, victim of Monday's tornado, is being held from the home of Mrs. Frank Anderson this (Thursday) afternoon.

At the time we advised that Mr. Gus Loop, Talbert Yeager, Jr., and Miss Dorothy McCracken, all of the Yeager family, are in serious condition.

By a circuitous telephone route through Calhoun City—the only wire open—Harry Burkley, county R. C. Chairman, contacted Washington Monday afternoon. Early Tuesday morning Mr. Glen Whisler, assistant to the Manager of the Eastern Area, and Mrs. Margaret Moore, Field Representative from Washington, were on the ground. Shortly afterwards a train filled with workmen arrived in Memphis from which point they will be directed in the restoration work of the entire storm area.

The Red Cross workers are engaged in making a survey of the damage done the people of the Grenada area with a view of restoring the property and personal losses of the property owners and with a view of rehabilitating the people who have lost their furniture and clothing, and who are unable to care for their own rehabilitation problems.

For the present there will be no local drive for Red Cross Funds. However, voluntary subscriptions will be most welcome. The telephone number is 322. The Red Cross office is over the Heath building.

Sufferers from this disaster who are not able to take care of their own rehabilitation problems are invited to come to the Red Cross office over the Heath building and register.

Dear Henry Orman, Los Angeles: thanks for your interest as evidenced by your telegram. The damage in Grenada was limited to a very narrow strip in the extreme southeastern part of town.

The above illustrates the speed which characterizes the action of the American Red Cross which is ready on a moment's notice to render aid to stricken areas.

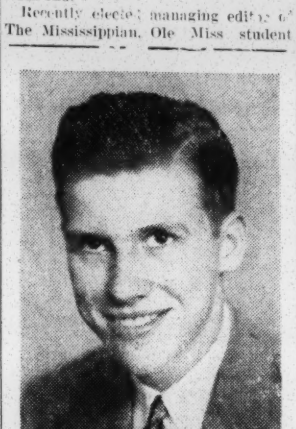
Those who loaned cots, bedding, etc. for use at the Community House are urged to go there and claim their stuff, otherwise it will be assumed that it is to be donated to the Red Cross.

A negro is as hard to get trapped as an old gray rat, and this explains why nobody was trapped in the wrecked plywood building.

Wm. Winter New President Of M. S. P. A.

William Winter, of Grenada, student at the University of Mississippi, was elected president of the Mississippi Scholastic Press Association at its annual convention held in Jackson last week-end.

Recently elected managing editor of The Mississippian, Ole Miss student weekly newspaper, Winter was nominated for the M. S. P. A. presidency by the Ole Miss delegation after the convention site for next year was set at the University. He succeeds Kimball Glasglow of Mississippi State College as head of the association.



WILLIAM WINTER

Program at the convention held on the Millsaps campus in Jackson included division meetings of college and junior college papers, high school printed papers, and high school mimeographed papers; a convention banquet with Kenneth Toler, head of the Jackson Bureau of the Commercial Appeal, as toastmaster; a tour through the plant of the Jackson Daily News; adoption of a constitution for the association; and an address by Fred Sullen, editor of the Jackson Daily News.

Winter as president of the M. S. P. A. will be in charge of planning and carrying out the program for a convention at Ole Miss next year.

Red Cross Appeals For Clothing

The cyclone which struck with such violence Monday, left many good citizens, both white and colored, homeless; their household goods, their cars, their clothing, their work stock and feed stuff were all blown away.

The Red Cross has collected some clothing, locally, to give to the storm victims, but more are needed. Here is a partial list for immediate needs, and you are requested to bring clothing to the COMMUNITY HOUSE.

Ladies' under clothing; little girls' clothing, ages 1 to 15; small boys' clothing, ages 5, 6, 7, 8; infant's clothing and diapers; children's shoes and socks. Shoes of all sizes.

Nice Progres At Hosiery Mill Additions

Corley and Currie, contractors for the two additions to the city-owned hosiery mill building (which, "they say", are to be used in some kind of war production) are making fine progress in the building. If reasonably good weather prevails, the contractors expect to finish the job in sixty days.

Visiting Rector Here Next Wednesday

On Wednesday evening, March 25, the Rev. Whitney, rector of the Episcopal Church at Germantown, Tenn., will fill the pulpit at All Saints Episcopal Church at the 7:45 services. Everyone is invited to attend the service.

Farming Operations Behind In Grenada County

Reports from all over the county indicated that farming operations are considerably behind on account of the unusually great amount of rain that has fallen during the past month.

Everybody has been delighted to see Sam Simmons, the old one riding about in a big car with his wife as chauffeur.

Belhaven College Selects Miss Helen Horton Queen

Miss Helen Horton of Grenada has been selected by the Belhaven College student body to reign as the May Queen in the traditional pageant held at the college each spring. The two other nominees for the title, to serve as maids to the queen, are Miss Louise Fugate of Hazlehurst and Miss Eva Lois Davis, of Jackson. All are members of the junior class.

MISS HELEN HORTON

Miss Horton is a member of the Colette, popular throughout the vicinity for its entertaining programs and a A Capella choir. She serves this year as assistant business manager of the annual, and music chairman on the Christian Association cabinet.

Ray Merrett Chapuis Died Early This Morning

Ray Merrett Chapuis died at Grenada Hospital early this (Thursday, March 19, 1942) morning.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Chapuis and was born in Grenada in April, 1915. He was graduated from Grenada High School. He was a member of the Baptist Church, having joined during his boyhood. He and Miss Willie Pearl Bickerstaff of Grenada were married about four years ago. He had been employed at the Durant hosiery mill but most recently as timekeeper at the survey camp at Glenwild.

Funeral services are scheduled for 11 o'clock tomorrow (Friday) and burial at the new cemetery. Rev. G. E. Wiley is scheduled to be in charge of the ceremonies.

Surviving him are his wife and two small children, Bobby Ray and Jacqueline, his parents and brothers and sisters as follows: Ralph, Ouida, Euladine, and Cecil Jane, to whom our sympathy is expressed.

The GCW regrets that it was unable to obtain more complete details.

The Corley Apple

The December Bulletin Mississippi farm research of agricultural experiment station has this to say in regard to apple tests for State of Mississippi. The Corley apple in 1941 yielded 22 3/10 bu. per tree. The nearest to this comes the Golden Delicious with of 17 7/10 bu. per tree.

The people of Grenada County should take both pride and satisfaction from this test. As the Corley apple is a product of this county, having been first discovered by a negro preacher, John Corley, and perpetuated through grafting by Mr. Silas Rayburn and his father. The Corley apple is the largest, the cooking, the best eating, most prolific and nearest blight proof apple known, also a fine shipping apple.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

W. L. Robinson, Pastor

We appreciate the fine work that is being done in our training school this week. We have with us Mrs. M. E. Woodson, of Olive Branch, Rev. E. M. Sharp, of Hernando, and Rev R. A. Grisham, of Grenada. Mrs. Goodson is Conference Director of Children's Work, Brother Sharp is Conference Director of Youth Work and Brother Grisham is Executive Secretary of The Board of Education. These teachers are making a large contribution to the work of our church here at Grenada and we are grateful to them.

The large congregation which we had last Sunday encouraged us very much. We appreciate the fine group that came to church school Sunday morning. We hope you will come back next Sunday and bring others with you. Look around you and find some fellow who is not attending church services and bring him with you next Sunday.

TORNADO VICTIMS FILL GRENADA HOSPITAL

Monday afternoon two tornados, one forming west of Cascilla and traveling eastward through Cascilla and Scobey, and the other forming near Berclair, Leflore County, each leaving a path filled with dead, injured and debris, filled Grenada Hospital to the overflowing point and nearly filled Grenada's Community House to its capacity with injured men, women and children.

The tornado which started at Berclair killed about ten persons there killed two near Teoc, killed four members of the J. T. Jackson family who lived just south of the Grenada-Carroll line, swept through the southern end of District Five of this county leaving barns and timber demolished, swooped down near the Sweet Home colored church at Nason and added six or seven negroes to the injured list, then at about 5 p. m. cut a two hundred yard swath through the extreme southeastern part of the City of Grenada where, barely missing the Grenada Hospital, it entirely destroyed the Talbert Yeager property and the L. C. Howard property, and made shambles of the Grenada Plywood Box Company factory and office, upturning freight cars and fragile houses and bulk stations as it went, then destroyed the Wallace Campbell home across Rogue and evidently spent its fury in the steep hills beyond.

The dead of this county are little Billy Yeager, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Yeager, and little Jesse E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Smith, both of Grenada; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jackson and daughter, Shirley, who lived on the Hightower old place in northern Carroll county; Mrs. M. A. Franklin, Earl Franklin and Audry Franklin who lived near Cascilla, Tallahatchie county; and a negro, F. D. Richardson, of Scobey. The first two were killed in Grenada, while Mr. Jackson and Richardson died in the hospital.

Serious property damage in the City of Grenada itself included the utter destruction of the L. C. Howard property consisting of a store and several houses, the home and outbuildings of T. T. Yeazer, a tenant house belonging to W. B. Hoffa near the railroad, a house (occupied by Jesse Smith) owned by L. L. Peeples and the home of Wallace Campbell. The huge workroom of the Grenada Plywood Box Company, filled to the rafters with raw sheets of veneer, was so badly wrecked that its rebuilding from the ground up is absolutely necessary. Its store room suffered the loss of part of the roof; its boiler room was badly battered, while its office was unroofed and badly damaged otherwise. The force of the storm was so great that four or five freight cars were overturned, one of which was picked up and set down on the loading platform. The bulk Texaco station's warehouse was wrecked, while the bulk stations of Pan-Am and Citi Service received lesser damage. A row of tenant houses on the south side of Green Street extended, and owned by Phillips Lumber Company, was partially wrecked. The lumber mill's office was badly damaged and its smokestack left askew. The tornado left in its wake a tangled mass of telephone, telegraph and power lines near the plywood mill. In spite of heroic work of the power company men executives included, the emergency work at the hospital had to be done by the light of hurriedly assembled candles, kerosene lamps and flash lights.

The shriek of the siren on the fire engine was the first intimation that most people of Grenada had that "something had happened". Quickly, however, did the news spread that the wind had wrecked the southeastern part of town. In spite of the heavy rain then falling, people hurried to the scene, searched the ruins and transferred the injured to stretchers and ambulances to the hospital nearby until that institution was filled to capacity, after which the other injured persons were carried to the Community House where willing workers quickly assembled cots, bedding and pillows. Volunteer women workers, most of whom had received First Aid instructions recently, pitched in and helped both at the hospital and at the Community House.

Doctors and ambulances and nurses and tetanus serum quickly arrived from Memphis and nearer towns. A fully-equipped Red Cross emergency truck came in from Memphis. Two deputy sheriffs from Shelby County, Tennessee were sent here. Many members of the State Highway Patrol quickly arrived. Through the circuitous routes necessary due to almost total disruption of contact with the outside world, word filtered in from Jackson, Greenwood, Memphis, Eupora and other towns offering any possible aid. The Hable Construction Company which is engaged in building the huge overpass nearby sent in its bulldozers, crawling cranes and other heavy equipment to expedite the work of clearing the wreckage. The army engineers and the civilian engineers at Glenwild rushed in, as did the male employees of the hosiery mill, who were dismissed for that purpose.

The Talbert Yeazer family experienced the greatest loss, the total destruction of its home and all outbuildings, the death of their son, Billy, the serious injuries of Miss Dorothy McCracken (step-daughter of Mr. Yeager), Talbert, Jr., Margaret, and minor injuries to Betty Jane. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Loop of that home were badly injured.

In spite of the seriousness of the disaster, the press and radio grossly exaggerated the matter. Before us at this moment is a copy of The Clarion-Ledger of Thursday morning. Its front page bears a picture of a battered car and this caption: "AUTO BLOWN TWO BLOCKS; FIVE INSIDE SURVIVE" and a short note to the effect that "1000 were injured there." We have been unable to hear of such a wind-blown car, and we KNOW that one-sixth of Grenada's population of 6,000 was not injured.

The power went off in Grenada at 4:20 and stayed off in the business section until about the time of the storm. This power stoppage no doubt was indirectly responsible for the fact that not one of the hundred odd employees at the box factory was trapped in the building. In some miraculous manner, known only to God Himself, everyone of them escaped. Contrary to reports current on the streets these employees had not been dismissed for the day. They were merely on the alert awaiting the resumption of power flowage.

Work of cleaning off started, as stated, as soon as the wind ceased. A large crowd of power company, telephone, telegraph repairmen and railroad signalmen got busy immediately. The huge pile of debris representing what was the plywood box factory was tackled first to find if any men had been entrapped, and continued to clear away the mess. Mr. Burkley, the head of that business, stated that a Cleveland representative of the company would be in Grenada Saturday, at which time it would be decided whether to rebuild or not.

So much for the tornado.

The list of injured persons who live in the territory contributatory to Grenada is published in The Hospital News. Many who received first aid only are not listed. A dozen or more listed in the Hospital News are persons who are suffering from ailments in no way connected with the tornado.

Important Meeting Of Defense Council

One of the most important meetings of the year will be held Thursday night, March 26th, at the Grenada High School at 8 o'clock.

The principal speaker will be Major H. S. McCallum, Liason Officer for Mississippi, Fourth Regional Office, Atlanta, Georgia. Major McCallum was sent to Mississippi by the Army to instruct Mississippians in Civilian Defense and we are very fortunate to be able to hear him.

Also on the program will be Miss Lena Brock, Executive Secretary, Mississippi Civilian Defense Council, Jackson, Miss., and Captain H. T. Lee, State Highway Patrol.

Captain Lee will award the insigna to those who are graduating from the Drivers Corps. This will be the second class to graduate from training under Civilian Defense in Mississippi. The only other class that has graduated is in Jackson. Grenada is proud of their Drivers Corps as they have studied and practiced many hours to deserve this award.

The Motion Picture on how to put out Incendary Bombs will be shown also. You can learn more about how to extinguish an Incendary Bomb from this picture than you could learn most any other way than actual experience. We are especially interested in having people from the county see this picture as it will probably be the only chance they will have to see it, at least for some time.

We would like to see the high school packed to overflowing as we feel that you realize the necessity of being prepared to meet any emergency. About two bombs falling on Grenada would have done more damage than the storm of last Monday..

Grenada County Defense Council.

Should a camp come, the city and county face innumerable new problems, particularly during the construction period. Better get ready!!

Grenada Is Grateful

While the disaster in the wake of the wind that swept the extreme southern section of Grenada Monday afternoon was not sufficiently great to justify a great deal of outside assistance, we are sure we express the sentiments of the people of Grenada when we publicly thank all persons everywhere for their offers of assistance and for the assistance actually rendered the community.

Members of the Highway patrol arrived here as soon as the crippled communication lines could convey messages. Doctors from surrounding communities came in; internes from Ole Miss arrived quickly. The employees of the hosiery mill were instructed to quit their work at the mill and aid in the rescue and other work. The government engineers and the civilian engineers at Glenwild sped to Grenada to help. The employees of Corley and Currie, contractors for the addition to the hosiery mill, dropped their tools and "pitched in." Ambulances from other towns, including Memphis, rushed in. The State Legion headquarters contacted Commander William Wright and offered any assistance. At least two individual Posts, the one at Greenwood and the one at Eupora, were anxious to help. These are just a few of the many offers of help received here in Grenada. The American Red Cross, "The Great Mother of All," quickly placed all of its great power in action. The Sheriff of Shelby County, Tennessee, dispatched to Grenada two of his most efficient deputies to help out. The Hable Construction Company's powerful equipment started immediately to clear away the wreckage. The men of the utility companies started work at once.

The ladies and men who have been taking practical instruction in the various phases of civillian defense had their first taste of actual work, and well did they do this work. —The doctors worked far into the early morning. The question, "Can this person pay for this treatment" never entered the mind of any participant in the injured person's, relief. "What does the injured person need and how quickly can the need be filled" was the paramount question.

To mention any one individual act of self-sacrifice or heroism might omit others more deserving of mention. No doubt some "unsung hero" away out in the country—whose name is not known and may never be known—may be the individual most deserving of credit. Suffice to say, Grenada people reacted nobly to the disaster which came and left within a matter of seconds, and suffice to say that our neighbors far and wide were anxious to contribute their bit to the alleviation of our suffering.

Will The Camp Come?

"Will the army camp be located in this area" is a question asked more frequently than "How do you feel today," here in Grenada.

Everybody outside of Grenada and most of the people here have accepted as a fact that the camp will be located here. Newspapers here and there have taken it as a fact that the camp will be located here, and have published many tales based on that premise.

Here is how we will find out about the camp. When, or if, the Washington authorities decide definitely to locate a camp here, they will courteously and simultaneously notify Senators Bilbo and Doxey and Congressman Ford. These gentlemen then will engage in a race to the telegraph office and wire people in Grenada what "I have done." These telegrams will be the FIRST official news that a camp is coming. These telegrams, of course, will cost Uncle Sam, not the gentlemen who dispatch them, several hundred dollars.

"HARD PRESSED SOLONS ENTER FINAL WEEK," reads a headline in The Clarion-Ledger. Oh, hell.

Me and the U. S. A.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIA TREE

By Herbert B. Allen

Human nature is the most amazing invention of the Almighty. And human beings are the most inconsistent creations in the universe. Nations are merely collections of these strange individuals, so nations are as strangely inconsistent in their conduct as are their millions of individuals.

What I am getting around to is merely a discussion of the long series of naval and military defeats that harden the national spirit these days. Do you think that there is anything unsual about the number, and the consistency, of our defeats? There is nothing UNUSUAL about them whatever. These defeats are as logical, and as consistent, as the laws governing mathematics.

For my part, I know little about science, less about psychology, and still less about education. Therefore the thing that puzzles me most, in this perplexing world, is this. What becomes of all the brains that are turned out of our great universities? Do they all go to seed in such times of national crisis as the recent economic depression, or the current world war?

When the moon comes between the sun and the earth there is an eclipse, when the constant turmoil of this confused old world stirs up a great economic depression, or a great world conflict—what happens to our great brains? At least they are always consistent. They go into A TOTAL ECLIPSE!

Suppose you have a neighbor who does not like your looks. He may envy your bank account—he may be jealous of your pretty wife—he may not like the fact that you raise more and better cotton than he does. In any event he quietly makes up his mind to take you to the cleaners.

He starts taking exercises regularly. He punches the bag for an hour daily—he works out on a rowing machine—he juggles the Indian clubs—he runs a mile or two around the country. In short, he systematically and persistently prepares himself for the day when he can push you around with complete confidence in the result.

In the meantime you continue to grow softer and lazier. You never walk if you have gas in your long suffering car. In the evening you may watch Clark Gable and Lana Turner through some delighted farce; perhaps sit in at the Ferdinand Clubs and contribute a few chips to the editor of this newspaper; or you may tinkle a glass or two at a night club (I don't know, I'd have to ask Harry Greenfield about that). In any event, when your neighbor decided to renovate you, the outcome would never be in doubt!

Well,—Germany has been doing exactly that ever since Hitler came into power nearly ten years ago. Japan was busy exercising on China long before Hitler's name was known to Americans. And poor Musso had the gay Italians goose-stepping even before that. And during all these years while the Axis has been exercising, the English speaking, democratic nations have been busily engaged in trying to set their house in order after the chaos of the great economic depression. While Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini have been busy stacking kindling wood under the great English speaking mansion, and soaking that kindling wood with propaganda gasoline, we have been busy inside the mansion, sweeping, dusting, and rearranging the furniture!

And for the past three years particularly, the English speaking, democratic nations have watched the Axis maim, murder, pillage, burn and enslave some of the principal nations of the world. We have looked on with expressions of pained unbelief and horrified amazement. But with each new conquest the Axis acquired the entire military machine and equipment, and the total agricultural, mineral, and industrial resources of the vanquished nation.

Is it any wonder then that the Axis should have easy going when the day arrived on which they decided to take a fall out of their most hated, most wealthy, most stupid enemies—the English speaking democracies? Anything else but a series of defeats for us would have been miraculous. But this is not the age of miracles. God helps those who help themselves.

We have scoffed at the truth as it has been revealed in country after country, month after month, year after year. What the cables have reported in our press we have dismissed as having no more practical application to us than the baseball scores of last year's World Series. We decided that these things, like the prohibition law in Mississippi, could never touch us personally! With seventeen cent cotton in Memphis, and with record automobile production in Detroit, why worry about Europe, Africa and Asia being on fire?

Were we unsophisticated! We firmly believe that we could live innocently and unharmed in a feverish world rapidly being over-run by madmen de facto, burglars de luxe, and murderers de millions. America was some immune fairyland: and we, the Americans, were truly Alice In Wonderland! Where WAS—or rather, where IS, American intelligence?

When there were few universities in this country, educating a few young men of outstanding ability, and imbued with a burning desire to contribute their ability to the advancement of their fellow Americans, we had some of the greatest characters on our national stage that have ever graced the pages of history.

Today we have so many universities (in name only) that less than ten percent of their faculties possess the peculiar qualifications of character, and intellectual brilliance, that are cardinal prerequisites for the noble profession of teaching in a true university. What are the products of these pseudo-universities?

Today we have for the leadership of this great nation a generation of Americans whose sole interest in their university careers was the acquirement of that type of information which would best guarantee a life of comparative ease; and, if possible, the ability to become wealthy.

Shakespeare once wrote that there was something rotten in Denmark! He was usually right. Once again there is something rotten in Denmark. This time it is the Nazis! But in my humble opinion there is something rotten much closer to home than poor old Denmark. I mean right here in the good old U. S. A.

At the moment our nation is in a very serious predicament. In our national hour of crisis we have to rely upon men who passed through their universities to come out endowed only with the great tradition of self-seeking and acquisitiveness. So few public spirited men of great ability are available to contribute their talents to the solution of our grave problems that it is a damning indictment of our system of higher education (?)

Nothing that has developed since the turn of the century is more damning evidence of the materisl corruption of the American people, of the spiritual degeneracy of a great nation, than the sterility of American leadership as of March, 1942.

This serious condition of affairs is NOT the result of the faults and errors of farmers, mechanics, carpenters and sailors—of automobile salesmen, electricians, planters and paperhangers.

This serious condition of affairs IS directly the result of the faults and errors of educators, engineers, philosophers and chemists—or writers, scientists, business executives and economists—of lawyers, industrialists, financiers and senators—of investors, administrators, sociologists and editorial writers.

When the Roberts' Committee investigated the national disgrace at Pearl Harbor there was no condemnation of the soldiers of the army, the seamen of the navy, or the rank and file of the marines. The harsh language of the Roberts' Committee was reserved for the so called "brains" of the army and navy, the generals and admirals!

In civilian life it is exactly the same theme. It is the leadership of the common people that has been faulty all along the line, with a very few conspicuous exceptions. The average American citizen has never been vain imbecility of the inglorious "big shots"—It is the men in big places—that plunges this nation into the depths of despair.

What is the principal cause of the woes of the democratic nations of the world? There is a Grenada business man who, when he is asked his opinion on some matter of importance, always introduces his remarks with this expression, "I don't know, I may be wrong, but—".

So I shall preface my answer with this phrase, I don't know, I may be wrong, but it appears to me as though most of our serious problems are caused by a total eclipse of the intelligence of those to whom we look for leadership. Our most serious problem of the moment is the TOTAL BLACKOUT OF DEMOCRATIC BRAINS!

Add to the names of those who said "It can't happen to US": Java.

We understand the Mayor of Tullahoma used to get $25.00 per year, then was raised to $25.00 per month and now, since Camp Forest has been located there, he has been raised to $100.00 per month to help offset the expense of an extra employee in his lumber company office. Such extravagance!

Well, by good luck and the continued indulgence of our creditors, we got by another first of the month.

George Chamberlain and Mrs. George visited their son who is at Keesler Field, last week. Fred is more worried about his mama and papa than they are about him, if anything.

Tommie Rose had his clerks diked out in duff, or is it buff colored new uniforms last Friday.

If I were a young, strong and healthy Congressman, well fixed financially, and with no children, I would hide myself in shame before I would vote to draft your boy and my boy and, at the same time, exclude myself. Damned if I would not take a dose of the medicine I concocted for my constituents.

Hattie Miller got in barely under the March 1 deadline.

It is going to be tough enough going if all of the allies stick together, but it will be virtually impossible to win if dissention arises between the nations fighting the Axis powers.

PROVINE-ROWELL

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Rowell announce the marriage of their daughter, Sue, to Mr. C. C. Provine, son of Mrs. C. C. Provine, and the late Mr. Provine, on Saturday evening at seven thirty, March 14, 1942, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Bain, at Elliott. Only members of the two families were present. Rev. C. A. Pharr, Presbyterian minister, of Grenada, officiated.

The vows were exchanged beneath an arch way decorated with Southern Smilax and bridal wreath. On either side were placed baskets filled with snowy frons of bridal wreath interspersed by jonquils and ferns. Tall white tapers cast a soft light over the nuptial scene. William Horton Bain, a young cousin of the bride, lighted the tapers. The bride was attended by Miss Frances Neelly, who wore a lovely spring dress of heaven-blue with a corsage of pink carnations.

Leon Provine, a cousin of the groom served as best man.

The bride wore a lovely costume suit of soft rose hue crepe and chose black accessories. Her costume hat was of black with small rose hued ostrich tips. Her shoulder corsage was of white rosebuds, carnations and ferns. She is a popular member of the young social set in Grenada, receiving her high schol education in Grenada and business training in Memphis. She is now employed in Jackson, Miss. at the Mississippi Employment Office, and plans to return to her position there in a few days.

The groom is a splendid young man, and a member of one of the pioneer families of Mississippi. He is engaged in defense work, and is to leave Amerika in the near future.

METHODIST W. S. OF C. S. MET MONDAY

The program meeting of the W. S. of C. S. was well attended Monday afternoon when all circles met at the church. The subject was "Health of India" and on the program for well prepared talks were Mesdames Richardson, Butler, David Dubard, and Griffin.

"GRENADA'S FIRST AID UNIT"

Members of Grenada's First Aid classes had a good opportunity to prove to themselves and to others, whether they were prepared to render first aid efficiently or not. If there is any doubt in your mind concerning your ability to serve others in case of disaster, ask to be enrolled in one of the classes being taught now. It takes skill to learn to handle injured persons, and it is not a reflection on your ability if you feel that the 20 hour course was insufficient for instructions. Go to current taught class and study and practice the various bandages and methods prescribed by the Red Cross until you are skillful.

To those in executive places during the disaster, it might be well to review your reactions following the terrible storm, and if you were unable to remain calm, get a grip on fourself and do better next time.

The Red Cross First Aid Units did a splendid job in Grenada County this week, and we congratulate them.

MR. AND MRS. ROGERS PARKER ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Parker entertained beautifully Thursday evening in honor of their sister, Mrs. J. W. Willis. The occasion being the anniversary of Mrs. Willis' birthday. Mrs. Parker's rooms were aglow with sunny daffodils and her table perfect in every appointment, at which eight guests were seated, was indeed a picture of loveliness. Beautiful salads and condiments, centered by a huge white birthday cake on silver tray and enhanced by the soft light of candles.

Rogers is the youngest of his father's family and Mrs. Willis the eldest of the family enjoyed this bit of thought by her "baby" brother. Mrs. Willis' only son, and youngest child went to war—immediately on his 21st birthday in October last.—Contributed.

New Books At Grenada County Library

MISSISSIPPI BELLE by Clements Ripley.

Here is a rousing, realistic tale of Memphis and New Orleans in the 1930's. A fiery young heroine who lived a double life, as the notorious Kate Ryan and as Catitlin Preswald, and unassuming young widow.

BRIDE OF GLORY by Bradda Field.

Irresistable as in the days of Nelson, beautiful Emma Hamilton lives again in this chronice of a blacksmith's daughter who became the true friend of a famous hero and the trusted confident of a queen. For probaly the first time the whole early story of this lovely impetuous woman is told; her poverty, her childish escapades, her innocent rascalities, her gamine shrewdness her rebuffs at the hands of a society which eventually surrendered to her valiant spirt and her blazing beauty.

These two books are just off the press and will be given a great deal of publicity. They are now ready for you at your library.

CARD OF THANKS

Our company and all its owners and employees are extremely appreciative of the fine service that the volunteers did in helping us salvage as much as possibue of the wreckage caused by the tornado Monday afternoon. The people of Grenada certainly did respond nobly to us, as well as to the many other people in the stricken area. May God bless you. Sincerely,

Mr. Moon Daigre got in under the wire in time to save 4 bits.

James Monroe BURT, son of Mr. Everett Day Burt, Adams Street, Grenada, Mississippi, who was enlisted in the U. S. Navy on January 20, 1942, completed his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Virginia on February 23, 1942, and will be transferred to the Signal School, Chicago, Illinois, for a course of instruction.

Grenada county has every reason to be proud of its new court room, even if they had to put zinc tubs up there during the last term of court to catch the snuff spittle and the ambeer.

Among those added as new subscribers was Miss Belle Knox who received the GCW a year as a birthday present from her sister, Miss Mary.

So far we have failed to hear from an esteemed congressman whether it was legal for aldermen and supervisors to pension themselves. Maybe we will hear it from the stump.

The King of the Snuffdippers, Roscoe Fowler, was a recent visitor. He took a good dip while here. I have about quit.

ATTENTION OF ALL OPPONENTS OF DAMS AND RESERVOIRS IN GRENADA, YALOBUSHA AND CALHOUN COUNTIES

There is no doubt about the proposition that the big job on hand is whipping Hitler and no further attention will be paid to the reservoir and dam proposition for some years and by that time if the people who are interested will intelligently use their efforts we will have this reservoir and dam proposition as dead as a mackerel. I had contemplated a trip to Washington but with the situation coming up as it has since the 7th of December this is unnecessary.

I do suggest to the people of these three counties that in the 1942 primaries everyone of us interrogate candidates as to how they stand so that we can elect men that we can count on at a later time to help keep off this powerful threat and menace to our safety. If we will do that and simply go along and keep our powder dry it will be easy to prevent any further serious consideration of this monstrus proposition.

YOUR SCRAP METAL

Is Needed Now for VICTORY!

A critical shortage of scrap metal now exists in United States War Industry. Unless more scrap is forthcoming at once, war production will slow down and months, even years will be added to this fearful battle.

It is of the utmost importance that every pound of scrap metal on your farm start moving now toward America's steel mills and foundries to make more war material.

To help you get your scrap moving, this store will cooperate in every way possible. Canvass your farm from the attic to the farthest fence corner. Gather every bit of old metal into a conveniently located pile and drop a post card to this store telling us approximately how many pounds you have collected.

Your card will be turned over to a scrap dealer who prepares scrap for the mills. His truck will be routed past your farm to pick up your scrap soon and get it started toward the fighting front.

This store collects this information and passes it along as a patriotic service without commission or profit of any kind. Our work in this campaign and the cost of this advertising is our contribution to victory.

It is your patriotic duty to collect your scrap and notify this store at once.

Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

—V—

There is a good deal of talk in and about Grenada of an army camp being located here.

We may as well realize that, at the present time, we are losing the war. Too Little Too Late, and trying to protect too much territory with too little equipment and too few men has accounted for our reverses. We hope that the trend will soon change, and that we will forget the word, "Defense" and think in terms of "Offense". The best break possible in a defensive war is a statemate, or tie. It takes Offense to win.

We are so hopelessly behind with our new subscribers and renewers that we probably will never catch up. You know the was has interfered with this, as well as other important things.

Cousin Chuck Trotter visited his son at the A. and M. College over the week end, but stated that he could not compete with an eighteen year old blonde. Why try?

Shick Geeslin, now helping make bombers for the allies on the west coast is a new subscriber, but we may have already mentioned it.

Miss Belle Knox received a year's subscription from her sister, Miss Mary, as a birthday present. That's a present that will last 12 months. We hope both of these estimable ladies will enjoy the GCW.

Aint they sweet.

Brother F. E. Gillon has been reinstated on the mailing list after a short vacation during which he was in partial eclipse.

Bet Horn does not know what kind of title he enjoys on the government pay roll but receives his pay regularly and that's what counts.

Use GOOD seed. The best rule about buying seed is to buy from a dealer in whom you have confidence. Nobody can tell a good seed from a punk seed by looking at it.

We did not take the time to analyze the soil conservation law which authorizes the creation of the Grenada County Soil Conservation unit, to be voted upon shortly, but we do know that there are several "bus" in it. It is still our advice to find out about it fully, or, in the absence of that, vote against it.

The county must have paid Butch McKnight off, for he paid us off.

We have some new neighbors-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Chamberlain, who are to occupy an apartment in the home of Mrs. Allie Gerard. Welcome to the neighborhood.

Paul Phillips, if we have not already mentioned it, took time by the forelock and renewed so as to save four bits.

We have had quite a few new subscribers, and renewers, who paid $2.00 per year and not one yet has kicked about it. They know that costs of all things pertaining to publishing a newspaper have gone up, and revenue down.

Our neighbor editor, Austin Seay, of the Winona Times, visited us recently. He asked if, in view of the impending huge increase in our population, the GCW was "going daily". The answer was an emphatic "no". The fellow who increases his business of whatever nature, to the extent that would be necessary in making a good daily out of a good weekly, just for a temporary increase in our population is going busted. We intend to continue to try to publish a good weekly newspaper, and let it go at that, and expect to continue to live up to our slogan, "Grenada County News A Specialty", even if three army camps come to Grenada.

The City of Grenada and Grenada County are going to have to exercise great care in their expansions, for all of us hope that there will be a City of Grenada and a Grenada Countty, both as stable governmental units, when the war is over. We want it to be the thought that "the camp is near Grenada," not that "Grenada is near the camp", should the camp come.

Ed Underwood, the canny Scot, paid in his renewal about five months ahead to save a measely four bits.

E. L. Shaw, during the absence of the editor, came in and paid up, not that we would not have taken his money had we been present.

Ike Solar was here a few days ago, but he may be back in New York by now. We hope his wife can keep up with him better than we can.

MACARTHUR, THE MAGNIFICENT, AS SEEN THRU THE EYES OF . . .

HERBERT B. ALLEN

Editor's Note: This was written by Mr. Allen at least a week before General MacArthur was given supreme command in the Pacific. Mr. Allen Advocated this promotion at least ten days before Mr. Wendell Willkie publicly advocated it.

General Douglas MacArthur was born in an army camp at Little Rock, Arkansas, on January 26, 1880. The present Mrs. MacArthur was born in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. She is very attractive in appearance, which appears to be a characteristic of Murfreesboro girls. The talented young singing star of the movies, Judy Garland, is also from that city.

At present on display in the Chicago Historical Society exhibits is a copy of the first newspaper printed by American soldiers in the Philippine Islands. Dated in 1898 it features the exploits of General Arthur MacArthur, father of Douglas, and commander of a brigade at the capture of Manila where he received the sword of Manuel, now the President of the Philippines, in surrender.

General Arthur MacArthur restored order, instituted an American school system, and organized the famous Philippine Scouts who are now performing such valiant deeds under his son's command. This remarkable chain of coincidences, linking the MacArthurs, father and son, to President Quezon, and to the Philippine Scouts, is one of the most interesting and romantic series of episodes in our military history.

Young Douglas graduated from the Point in 1903. Not only was he honor man of his clas, but he established the highest grades made at the Academy in 25 years: the cadet giving him the closest competition was Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of the great Union general. After the world war General Douglas MacArthur returned to West Point as Superintendent of the Military Academy.

After graduation he went to the Philippines as a 2nd lieutenant in the Engineer Corps, which was the usual routine for honor men in those days. Soon after his arrival in the Far East the Russo-Japanese war broke out. Douglas spent a year in the Japanese war zone with his father, for General Arthur MacArthur was military observer for the U. S. Army with the Japanese forces. Thus early in his career he became acquainted with Japanese strategy at first hand.

As a captain, with General Funston in Mexico in 1914, Mac distinguished himself by penetrating behind the Mexican lines at Vera Cruz, disguised as a peon. He located several locomotives which American soldiers captured and put into service.

As a colonel, at 37, he was chief of staff of the 42nd Division. It was Mac who first dubbed that great outfit the "Rainbow Division". He quickly won promotion and, as a Brigadier General, he commanded the 84th Brigade.

Many veterans will recall one of the innumerable parodies sung to the tune of "Madamoiselle from Armentieres" which ran something like this:

The General won the croix deguerre,
Parley vous,
The son of a . . . . was never there,
Parley vous.

But that was not the kind of a general that MacArthur turned out to be. For he went out of his way, both as a colonel and as a brigadier general, to take part in raiding parties, hand to hand fighting, and in every way acted like the son of his old man.

Once when the 168th Infantry, of 84th Brigade, was caught in withering fire in the Salient du Fays, Mac joined D Company and fought with the boys until they broke through. He was in action on the Champagne-Marne front, in the heavy going at St. Mihiel, the Meuse-Argonne and Sedan, the toughest fighting the AEF engaged in.

Where gallant action was the usual thing, Mac distinguished himself by such conspicuous bravery that he was decorated on the field by old "Black Jack" Pershing himself. His citation for the Distinguished Service Cross carries this sentence, "On a field where courage was the rule, his courage was a dominant feature." And when the armistice was signed Mac was commanding the Rainbow Division.

The old women in the War Department do not want MacArthur back in Washington. He would certainly raise hell with the morgue-like quietude which distinguishes the present General Staff. He knows all of the senior officers in the Service: he knows which are read wood: he knows which are obstructionists and "brass hats": he knows which have life, fire, initiative and power. No wonder the "stand pats" do not want to see him in command.

Mac was one of the few young officers promoted over the heads of hundreds of other officers of the Regular Army. He was promoted on merit and he demonstrated that merit on the field of battle. If he were in the high command there would no doubt be a terrific shock all down the line. The naval command has been given the works - now it is high time to shake up the army high command. Static is just as bad in the army as it is on the radio—only a great deal more dangerous. Men of action must supplant the "do-nothing" element now in control.

Mac has drama, color, experience, courage and thunder! Our army is sorely in need of a commander with exactly those qualities of character - a soldier's soldier. The army needs Douglas MacArthur as commanding officer - and it needs him immediately!

Right now the news appears to favor Japan to an amazing extent. And right now there is something being cooked up for Japan that will turn so much heat on the Son of Heaven that he will think the Sun God is resting right up against his rear end!

All's well that ends well - if you can only keep alive until the end comes. This war with Japan is getting into worse shape than Uncle Will Hoffa's battles with his taxes!

Music Hath Charm . . .

As the VICTORY BOOK CAMPAIGN is sweeping our shelves clean of all our most interseting volumes, we realize, all over again, just how our men in service must feel, far from home and all that home means—family, friends, music, books . . . Books are being supplied through VICTORY BOOK CAMPAIGN, sponsored by American Libray Association, American Red Cross, and United Service Organizations. Every home in the country with a bookcase is asked to share its books with our men in our fighting forces. Books come in from all over the United States—fiction, non-fiction, technical books, westerns, mysteries, all books that men need and want—but not nearly enough of them. So the call goes out: MORE BOOKS PLEASE.

All kinds of books for all kinds of men means, of course, books on music and musicians, too. For our men do not stop being music lovers when they don their uniforms. Think how forlorn they must be without the strains that mean so much to them! Music is one part of the recreational activities of camps that finds ready response. Every effort is being made, in USO clubs as well as in camps, to center interest on music through the organization of listening groups camp bands etc. We at home can help tremendously by sharing with them our best and most interesting books on music. Think of all those works on music and its makers that you have enjoyed—and that our soldiers and sailors will read with keen delight! Many will renew familiar acquaintances among the musical great—others may read of them for the first time. What real satisfaction music lovers can pass along—by taking their books to the Public Library for the VICTORY BOOK CAMPAIGN!

Speaking of the pension bill, we have a damn sight more respect for the 5 senators who stuck to their convictions and voted against the repeal of the pension bill than we have for the 55 who deserted their guns. We instinctively admire a man who will stick to his honest convictions even if we think he is absoltuely wrong in his convictions.

While we have quit fooling with politics and politicians, we make the prediction that Jim Eastland will be the next junior U. S. Senator and Tom Bailey will be the next governor.

If you hate England or any of our allies, put your hate away in a safe place to be disintered after the war, if circumstances then warrant its being dug up. Unless we present an united front we are gone gobblers.

Tri-State, with its connecting carriers, offers you frequent schedules daily to most points in the United States and Canada. A lot of the driving you do is unnecessary anyway because Tri-State can take you there for one-third of the cost and much more safely. Short Cruise on a U. S. Sub

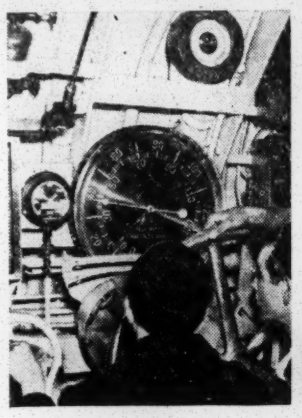
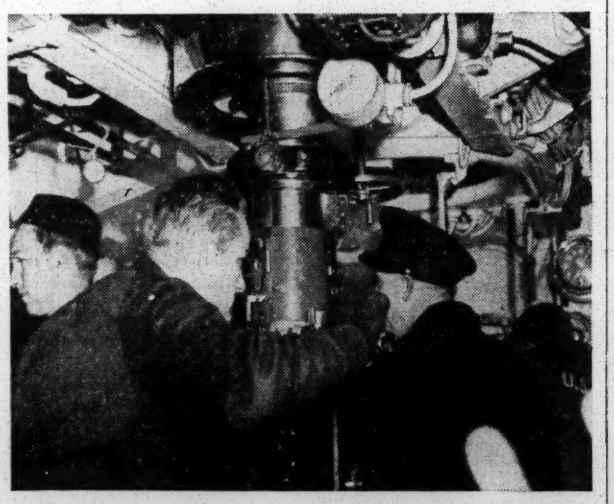
Let's go for a bit of a cruise on one of Uncle Sam's submarines and see what it's like in these compact little vessels that pack such a big wallop. Watching the snappy efficiency of the crew makes even the landlubber forget to be scared on his first trip to Davey Jones' locker.

This is how the bow of a submarine looks as the craft begins to submerge. There is no sensation of plunging, merely a tilting of the deck and an effort by the landlubber to adjust his balance to meet the pitch.

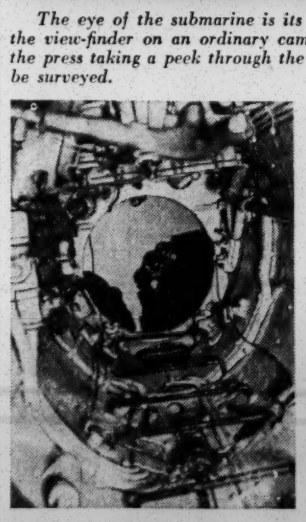


View of the depth gauge. Indicator here points to 38 feet. The man at the wheel controls the depth.

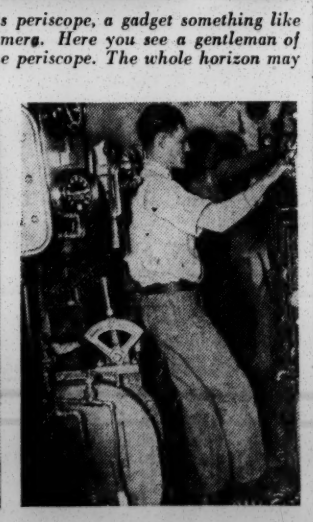
Living accommodations are not luxurious. Here is how the sleeping quarters are arranged, in three-tier bunks. The boys look happy.



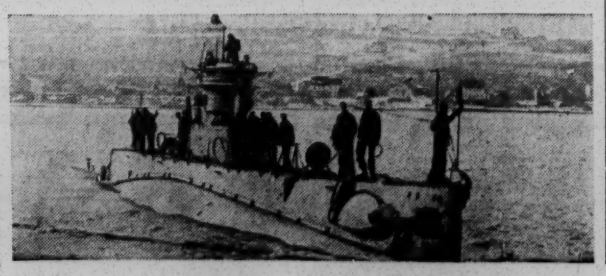
The eye of the submarine is its periscope, a gadget something like the view-finder on an ordinary camera. Here you see a gentleman of the press taking a peek through the periscope. The whole horizon may be surveyed.



Standing inside a sub with the main conning tower shaft open, this is what you see when you look up.



On the submarine every man is an expert. This is a view of the engine compartment.



That Kind of a Girl

By ADELAIDE D. HUFF
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

"THERE are thousands of other girls in your fix," said Mrs. Derson soothingly. "In fact, I've known some girls who never had a beau in their lives."

"And even that doesn't make me a bit the less lonely," said Lillian, dabbing a moist handkerchief to her red eyes. "I want boy friends and fun and happiness. I could have stood it if John Nelson hadn't quit coming."

"Well, he didn't come long," Mrs. Derson remarked, "and it's over a year since he stopped."

"He came until he found out I didn't go in for petting, then he walked off. They're all that way. No use telling me they aren't. Men haven't a bit of use for 'nice girls.' It's all bunk our mothers teach us to keep us from marrying."

"Lillian, you must be out of your mind," remonstrated Mrs. Derson. "Nothing else could make you talk the way you do."

"But, mother, I did love him and then the minute he took me in his arms I froze up like an old maid and he left me. I can't stand this little town any longer. I want to go away where nobody knows me and begin again. I've earned my own living for two years. You'd better let me go, mother. I'm so wretched and lonesome here."

Once having gained her mother's consent Lillian took little time in getting ready to leave home. She had a girl friend who had made her promise that if she ever decided to leave home she would come straight to Philadelphia and share her apartment while getting a start. So it was to Lucy Mehan that she went.

"Got enough of the old town?" greeted Lucy without surprise.

"I guess I did. I'm so lonesome I could die."

"Well, we'll have to hunt you up a boy friend. They're what kill the blues—and, Lillian, don't be too stiff. Let's hurry through supper. Some fellows are coming over this evening."

They had hardly finished supper when Harold Goodby and Joe Summers and Lloyd Forester and a girl came in. Lucy's baby living-room was the coziest thing with divans and soft lights and incense laden air. Seductive was the word, Lillian decided. After the introductions Harold came across and dropped on the divan beside Lillian. He put a careless arm around her shoulders and instinctively she drew back. She hated herself a second later but it was an involuntary gesture. She had been Lillian Derson too long.

"I've got such a terrible headache," Lillian apologized. "I just don't want anything tonight. I—"

She burst into tears and rushed into the tiny bedroom. What a fool she was! She didn't think it would be like that, but she just couldn't go it. Now, if it had been John—her John whom she adored . . .

After the guests had left Lucy burst in and gave Lillian a good lecture.

"I never was so embarrassed," she ended at last as she finished her undressing and snapped off the light.

Lillian cried herself to sleep and the next day who should appear at the door but John Nelson himself.

"Be a sport," kept ringing in her ears, as she greeted him.

"Oh, hello, John," she said nonchalantly, as she led him to a divan and dropped down beside him. She put an arm around his neck and kissed him, then she offered him a cigarette and took one herself.

"If I didn't know you so well, Lillian," he said, after a moment of stupefaction, "I'd swear you were fast. Quit this foolishness and be your own sweet little self."

"Foolishness!" hissed Lillian wildly. "Didn't you forget me when I wouldn't go in for petting? Didn't you drop me flat? Then you've got the nerve to come here and lecture me for petting. What do you want anyway?"

"I want to take you home and put some sense into you. I had planned to go over to your house on Christmas and . . . ask you to marry me. Last year when I quit I thought . . . maybe you were getting . . . serious. I knew I had nothing to offer at the time. Just by luck I made an unexpected real estate deal that's put me on my feet, and when I heard you'd left I followed you up here to tell you the news. Now, will you marry me?"

"But why did you quit seeing me when I wouldn't pet?" persisted Lillian, still clinging to the one idea—tears standing in her eyes.

"I don't know exactly," he said miserably. "I guess it's because we men generally go with the quiet kind of a girl when we are serious. She's the kind that never has many men but usually gets married."

"Men are too much of a riddle for me," sighed Lillian as he took her in his arms.

What Amateur Means

Even the little girl next door knows that an AMATEUR is one who engages in a sport without pay, or who plays the harmonica or gives imitations of Amos and Andy for Major Bowes, hardy perennial of the amateur hour. But I doubt if even the major knows that the French word "amateur" means literally "a lover." Yes, for it is the French form of the Latin "amator," meaning "lover."

Suede Answers the Call for Pretty but Practical Fabrics

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE necessities of wartime economy have challenged women to make very selective choices in the way of timely and appropriate dress. In preparing the new collections, those entrusted with the responsibility of creating clothes to meet these demands are motivated by a desire to maintain charm and attractiveness while always keeping in mind, however, the urgent call for practical wearability. Particularly in the matter of materials women must buy now with an eye to the future.

In this search for practicality plus chic and charm, it is with the utmost enthusiasm that designers of note are turning to richly colorful suede as highly desirable for dresses, suits, coats, hats, shoes and accessories. Arguments in favor of suede rest not only on its attractiveness, its subtle softness and its ready adaptability, but from the utterly utilitarian viewpoint there is nothing to surpass suede and the various leathers now so successfully used in costume design.

To demonstrate that a complete wardrobe of apparel done in serviceable, colorful, ever-flattering suede can be made to serve for almost every occasion in a busy woman's life, we are illustrating herewith a trio of coat, dress and sportswear fashions. Note, also, that this group of suede apparel convincingly demonstrates that smart clothes today reflect a tailored simplicity that is nevertheless unfailingly feminine.

A graceful classic coat of suede is shown to the left in the above picture. It will prove an investment that will pay big dividends in style and will be good from one season to another. That's something to be considered in buying, now that so large a percentage of wool and other materials must be diverted into other channels to help win the war.

Centered in the group illustrated above is a beautifully fitted frock done in a lovely, dusty pink suede. Here again is reflected the charm of simple lines and detail. This dress has the new soft shoulder line and a trimming of brown suede for the belt and a touch of it at the neck. The hat and bag are made of the same rose shade. Brown suede shoes and gloves complete the outfit.

Leather for sportswear always carries a definite note of style and charm and at the same time has no peer when it comes to sturdy wearing qualities. The attractive sports costume shown to the right in the above picture is typical of the western ranch styles that are so popular this season. Here you see an ensemble done in three pieces, the skirt in gold-flecked tweed, the blouse in a plaid of the same gold with green and white, the leather waistcoat in green suede.

In the way of accessories, the tiny sailors made of pastel suedes are combined with matching suede gloves. Just now the violet shades are being heralded as first in fashion for spring. For a springlike look, choose a pastel plaid suit with violet tones in its coloring. Wear with this one of the new violet suede sailors adorned with a generous cluster of violets.

Pine Cones

Of rayon fabric which packs easily, the all-purpose resort dress illustrated above uses Florida pine-cones and needles for its print motif. This winsome fashion comes in lily-white prints on lively blue, green and carroty tan grounds, or in the same attractive colors on a white ground. It has a smart peplum and fashionably collared low-cut V-neckline.

Wrap-Around Solves Fastener Problem

With the scarcity of metal because of priority rulings, the resourcefulness of designers has again been challenged to the point where necessity becomes the mother of invention. All of which, in the final analysis, reacts to the good fortune of fashion's followers. For it is certain that the current vogue for tie-it-yourself fastenings brings with it a new and fascinating styling.

There are the new skirts that drape to one side where they tie without aid of a slide fastener, hooks and eyes or button fastenings. A double duty dress is made in one piece for casual wear. For "dress-up" there is an extra apron effect that you can tie on in a jiffy. Many of the smartest coats are self-tied wrap-overs. Blouses are fashioned, also, with surplice fronts that tie to one side. Some jackets and many blouses tie in a series of little self fabric bows down the front.

Your Gloves Can't Be Too Colorful These Days

More color in gloves is the spring forecast. Which means we are going to wear gloves with our spring outfits in such audacious colors as Kelly green, bright red, purple, cerise, vivid blue and bright pink.

Gloves also will be made of the same print as that in your blouse, dress or hat. The fact that novel materials will be used for gloves also adds to their interest.

Straw Ensemble

Novelty tie, belt and three-strand necklace ensembles, all crocheted by hand of synthetic straw, are made to be worn with a related sweater. Pretty snoods are also crocheted in a lacy, open mesh stitch, with special attention to matching the colors to the peasant skirts with which they are ensembled.

JESUS THE MESSIAH FORETELLS HIS DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.—Mark 8:35.

Jesus came into the world as the Redeemer of men—and that means He came to die. The prophets who wrote centuries before His coming presented Him as both the suffering and the reigning Messiah. However, to the minds of the Jewish people only the idea of His glory and kingship was acceptable, not of His suffering and death.

Apparently His own disciples had this same impression and it therefore became necessary for Jesus as He came to the last months of His earthly ministry to speak plainly to them about these matters.

I. Recognition of Christ by Faith (vv. 27-30).

As a foundation for right thinking on any spiritual question there must be recognition of Christ's deity. He drew forth such a confession from the disciples by asking who men said that He was. Notice that while there was difference of opinion, all had a high opinion of Him, calling Him John the Baptist, Elijah, or one of the prophets. They knew that a great man was in their midst, and had to admit it, even though they hated and opposed Him. But it is not enough to accept Christ as a great man, as a teacher, a prophet, or an example. Nor is it enough to tell what others think of Him. The question quickly becomes: "Whom say ye that I am?" Have you answered that question? What will you do with Jesus Christ?

Peter responded with a straightforward, heaven-born confession of Christ as the Son of the living God (cf. Matt. 16:16-18) upon which Christ established His church.

II. Rejection and Crucifixion Prophesied (vv. 31, 32).

The foundation of faith in Him having been laid, Christ plainly laid before the disciples the fact of His coming rejection and death. Notice the word "must" in verse 31. "There was an imperative necessity for these things. But why must He die? This question is fully answered elsewhere in the Bible (John 3:14; Heb. 9:22; Isa. 53:4-6; II Cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:13; I Pet. 2:24). There could have been no salvation for any sinner if He had not died (Gal. 3:10, 13; II Cor. 5:21; Rom. 3:20-26)" (John W. Bradbury).

Note also that He "must rise again" (v. 31). He died for our sins, but "was raised again for our justification" (Rom. 4:25).

III. Rebuke of Unbelief (vv. 32, 33).

Peter, quick to accept Jesus as the Son of God, permitted Satan to blind his mind to the necessity of the cross, and thus became a stumbling block of unbelief, calling forth a severe rebuke from Jesus.

It is a striking and humbling thought that the very one who a moment before spoke such acceptable words of recognition of Christ's deity could by unbelief so quickly become the tool of Satan. "My soul, be on thy guard" lest such temptation overtake thee!

May we also learn from this incident that we do well to weigh the words of even good men lest in a moment of weakness or unbelief they say that which may lead us astray. God's Word alone is sure!

IV. Requirements of Discipleship (vv. 34-37).

Following the Christ of Calvary calls for a willingness to say "no" to self (literally, to deny any connection with self-life) and to follow through with Him on the path of shame and crucifixion. No self-will and no compromise are permissible to Christ's disciples.

Foolishly to attempt to hold one's life for self is to lose it. That painful loss has left brokenhearted, wrecked lives all along the path of man's history. But why should any one do it? Equally foolish is the one who supposes that this world has anything to satisfy the human soul. Assuming the possibility of the impossible—that is, attaining the whole world as one's own possession—to do so at the cost of one's soul would be an indescribably poor bargain.

What then shall we say of those who barter their eternal souls for a mess of pottage, a moment of sensual satisfaction, or for a few paltry dollars? "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" It is the unanswerable question.

Right Endures

When Christ preached the Sermon on the Mount he was mocked and later crucified; but the inspired truths that he uttered continue to live through the ages, defying crucifixion. We may doubt the divinity of the Christ, for the proof lies in the hereafter; but only by stultifying ourselves can we doubt the wisdom of the moral precepts he uttered.

DID YOU KNOW?

These figures we're about to set before you may be startling. Although they're not exact, we'll bet a yankee dime that they're almost correct.

Did you know that the Glee Club activities take up about 220 minutes a week here in high school? This, of course, means quartet, sextet, and so on. After multiplying by 36—the number of school weeks—we find that the Glee Club practices 7,920 minutes in the whole year, or 132 hours. This is equivalent to 2 school days work. Figure it out for yourself on the basi of a six hour study course a day. Miss Donaldson's to be highly commended for her untiring effort with the Glee Clubs.

BROWER'S VARIETIES

On March 10, at two o'clock in the high school auditorium, many of the students witnessed a very interesting show. It was Brower's Varieties, which featured Mr. Brower, a very clever ventriloquist, and with him were his three dummies, Jerry, Lucy, and Oscar. Also on this same program, Mr. House, musician and artist, played a few beautiful selections on his vibraharpe, and drew, while the audience watched him, clever comic and serious pictures. This was indeed and interesting and entertaining program.

It's lovely—just heavenly to know that tomorrow morning you can just sleep and sleep and sleep. All Algebra, Physics formulas and book reports will pass away and sleep will come. There won't be any last minute dashes to get to school in the morning. Ho, Hum! Good night all, and pleasant dreams.

Time: Next morning (about 15 'til 8) "Yes mother, I'm getting up" where are my shoes? Oh, goodness what will I wear to school?

Time: 8 o'clock. Hope I won't be late to classes as I usually am. "No, mother I haven't time for breakfast." Say mother, I dreamed last night that we could buy candy and cakes at school. I realy had a fine time dreaming.

DIRT

At the show Friday night we saw Freshman Granbery with his one and only Pauline. We can't say that we blame you, George. She is cute!

Romance of the year: Mary Lou and Emmett.
Romance of the month: Mary Lou and Emmett.
Romane of the week: Mary Lou and Emmett.
Romance: Mary Lou and Emmett, Mary Lou and Emmett.

Well, girls—it looks as though Jack Ward just can't be captured—well not by any Grenada girl, anyway. Some people have all the luck!

We hear Libba is in the "dog house" for two whole weeks! That's what she gets for these late hours.

This Geeslin-Keeton romance is really going good! No wonder Jean and Benton have looked so happy lately. Ohyeah, Jean received a call from a certain soldier boy, a former GHS student Thursday night and all the way from Connecticut, too.

Flash!!! Rogers had a date with Beebe the other night and when he dates, that's news. Speaking of dates, we saw Lill with Ed Morgan Friday night.

It's a shame Marguerite can't date on Saturday night, isn't it, Lynn?

Saw Hal and Margaret driving around Sunday afternoon. Merritt and Eleanor were on the back seat.

Beebe Cullen was seen with Rogers Pleasants Friday night. Lil, the Lollypop, and Rowe, the Riot, were with them.

Speaking of Lil, it seems that one certain Gene Sayles from Castle Heights, came to see her Saturday night.

Warren's heart is all a "flutter" over the arrival of Betty Wilsford on Friday.

Someone said that Jay has a date with the St. Lou for the very near future.

Bobby Townes and Larry Noble were seen at the Allen home over the week-end. (So was everybody else.)

Benton and Jean loped around town all day Friday on horses. From all appearances, the horses are doing well.

Frosh Ruby Helen Williams threw a party Friday night. June Wiliams appeared with her heart throb, Guy Robinson. Blanton Duncan, George Granberry, and "Money" Rhett were there too, but we can't exactly determine whom they were with.

Billy Theisman and Booner Anderson enjoyed the holiday with great gusto!

Buddy and Polly were seen somewhere, sometime, somehow, in the Chrysler.

Why doesn't Margaret Green hurry and get her phonograph fixed?

Frances and Catherine Herring stepped out on us Saturday and dined at the Hotel Peabody.

Your scribe and Lou Avent visited Natchez over the holidays.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

Babe Costilow dropped in to applaud Allen's articles, especially the last one in which Allen urges an immediate offensive. Babe used to get into a good many fights when he was young down in Little Texas and never won a fight when he let his opponent choose the time and place.

The GCW is fortunate to have such an intelligent man as Allen to write articles for it. His stuff is far better than the syndicated stuff that appears in the daily newspapers. Allen, than the syndicated stuff that appears in almost everything, and being of an observant and analytical temperament, and possessing the rare ability of expressing his thoughts clearly, is a real asset to our readers.

Some folks like Spearmint gum, some prefer Doublemint, some like to stick all gum on the bottom of the table and others prefer to get theirs from the sweet gum tree, but we prefer Tom Gum who recently renewed his subscription.

We made a mistake last week by reporting that Greenfield had to pay 600 times as much income tax this year as last. It was 604 times as much.

If this makes our good friend and customer, as well as subscriber, Bob Brown, mad, it will have so to be: he certainly has a fine little wife and a hale and healthy young daughter, both of which he is naturaly crazy about.

We were able by a good deal of squeezing to squeeze in the name of N. R. Minafore into the Sweatman bundle of papers. He got in just before the deadline.

The old lady went to Water Valley Sunday for four hours. I missed her so much that I sought the arms of Morpheus, and whiled away the irksome hours in sleep.

It looks like folks would be a bit more careful in the consumption of their last rubber. Yet, we note folks driving cars when going only a few blocks. Oh, me, they will be walking soon.

Tom Meek reported that on a 2400-mile trip to Florida, Grenada was the only place where the restaurants pushed out the sugar bowls with the unspoken invitation, "Help thyself".

With the coming of warm weather, the old lady and I may go to the coast and catch some croakers. While there I may shoot some poor craps.

Roy Doak must have decided to postpone his plow line and trace chain ad until 1943.

Mrs. J. L. Avent mailed in a renewal. Thanks, Sister Avent, may your tribe increase.

F. B. Larsen who from his name must be an Irishman, renewed recently. He is strongly opposed to the dama dams. We do not blame anyone whose homes are to be taken for public purposes from kicking, but there is nothing to do about it but get the best possible price. Uncle Sam is boss.

Speaking of the dam, talk persists that the Yalobusha dam will be built real soon. This we cannot believe. We cannot believe that the government will use the money, the energy, the equipment and the materials for something that can be postponed.

Our soldier cousin, Richard N. Carver, has had his date moved up a year.

The promotion of PFC. Verlin C. Fite, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Fite, to the grade of Corporal, has been announced in orders issued in the 29th Infantry. Corporal V. C. Fite, is assigned to Antitank Company, 29th Infantry.

The people of the United States, who have paid enormous taxes during the past eight years of peacetime, are resentful of the terrible unpreparedness that characterizes our nation and they naturally and logically blame the Congress and, as a result of this bitter resentment, will clean house at the elections this summer. That is the people's only way of showing their bitter disappointment that America, the richest country on earth, is being pushed about by the Japs just like an old fashioned tumblebug used to push about his roll of winter food. We believe there will be more new faces in the Congress next year than ever before. Maybe, the congressmen, sensing their impending separation from the governmental tit, were not so senseless in passing the pension bill.

Our two bitter, Eddie Davis, must have discovered a gold mine for he subscribed for a whole year the last time.

Dear Mr. Wick: you ought to see that hat you bought me. I had it cleaned and blocked and everybody thought I had a new hat.
